

Conflict of Interest Policy

Conflict of Interest Policy

A conflict of interest exists when the decision making or conduct of an individual or organisation could be affected by practices/interests external to their responsibilities to Qualsafe Awards (QA) and the delivery, assessment and quality assurance of its qualifications.

This policy contains guidance about how to identify and manage existing or potential conflicts of interest.

This policy applies to:

- Centre staff
- Trainers, Assessors and Internal Quality Assurers (IQAs)
- QA staff and Governing Body Members
- Third parties, including companies that provide services or goods to QA or approved Centres.

QA responsibilities

QA is an awarding organisation recognised and regulated by Ofqual, Qualifications Wales and the Council for the Curriculum, Examinations and Assessment (CCEA), QA is required to comply with the General Conditions of Recognition (The Standard Conditions of Recognition in Wales. Please refer to this document for minor variations in content) which contain the following definition of conflict of interest and details of what is required to effectively manage conflicts of interest:

Condition A4 Conflicts of Interest

Definition of Conflict of Interest

A4.1 A conflict of interest exists in relation to an awarding organisation where –

- (a) its interests in any activity undertaken by it, on its behalf, or by a member of its Group have the potential to lead it to act contrary to its interests in the development, delivery and award of qualifications in accordance with its Conditions of Recognition,
- (b) a person who is connected to the development, delivery or award of qualifications by the awarding organisation has interests in any other activity which have the potential to lead that person to act contrary to his or her interests in that development, delivery or award in accordance with the awarding organisation's Conditions of Recognition, or
- (c) an informed and reasonable observer would conclude that either of these situations was the case.

Identifying Conflicts of Interest

A4.2 An awarding organisation must identify and monitor –

- (a) all conflicts of interest which relate to it, and
- (b) any scenario in which it is reasonably foreseeable that any such conflict of interest will arise in the future.

Managing Conflicts of Interest

A4.3 An awarding organisation must take all reasonable steps to ensure that no conflict of interest which relates to it has an Adverse Effect.

A4.4 Where such a conflict of interest has had an Adverse Effect, the awarding organisation must take all reasonable steps to mitigate the Adverse Effect as far as possible and correct it.

Interests in Assessment

A4.5 An awarding organisation must take all reasonable steps to avoid any part of the assessment of a Learner (including by way of Moderation) being undertaken by any person who has a personal interest in the result of the assessment.

A4.6 Where, having taken all such reasonable steps, an assessment by such a person cannot be avoided, the awarding organisation must make arrangements for the relevant part of the assessment to be subject to scrutiny by another person.

Therefore, QA must:

- Ensure staff are trained to recognise existing or potential conflicts of interest at awarding organisation and Centre level and are aware how to appropriately mitigate the associated risks
- Ensure conflicts of interest declared by awarding organisation staff are recorded, clearly stating how these conflicts have been appropriately mitigated
- Continuously monitor existing and potential conflicts of interest at awarding organisation level
- Ensure approved Centres are fully aware of their responsibility to declare and appropriately mitigate conflicts of interest that may arise
- Ensure conflicts of interest declared by approved Centres are recorded, clearly stating how these conflicts have been appropriately mitigated
- Maintain current internal and external conflict of interest registers, updating details and removing items as appropriate
- Provide advice and guidance to Centres on how to identify and mitigate conflicts of interest
- Monitor approved Centre management of conflicts of interest through external quality assurance activities (e.g. moderation, external quality assurance visits)
- Take the necessary action to ensure the integrity of the assessment process is maintained when conflicts of interest cannot be avoided.

Identifying conflict of interest

All QA staff must be aware how to identify existing or potential conflicts of interest at awarding organisation and approved Centre level. Conflicts of interest that are not identified and/or mitigated appropriately could lead to the occurrence of an Adverse Effect with respect to the delivery of QA qualifications and Learner assessment.

An Adverse Effect is defined (by Ofqual) as:

An act, omission, event, incident, or circumstances has an Adverse Effect if it

- (a) gives rise to prejudice to Learners or potential Learners, or*
- (b) adversely affects –*
  - I. the ability of the awarding organisation to undertake the development, delivery or award of qualifications in accordance with its Conditions of Recognition*
  - II. the standards of qualifications which the organisation makes available or proposes to make available, or*
  - III. public confidence in qualifications*

Therefore, in order to maintain regulatory compliance, QA staff responsible for

- processing Centre Approval Applications (Centre Support Team)
- managing QA approved Centres (Operations and Compliance Team)
- carrying out external quality assurance activity (Quality Assurance)

must have the required knowledge and be able to provide advice and guidance to Centres on how to identify of conflicts of interest and how to mitigate identified conflicts appropriately.

Examples of conflicts of interest that could compromise the integrity of QA qualifications and assessments include:

- Business or commercial interests that may influence professional judgment (e.g. approved Centres who train their own staff with a view to making commercial/financial gains from their activity)
- Personal relationships with family or friends that could influence decision making (e.g. when a Trainer/ Assessor is delivering a course and assessing Learners, including his/her son or daughter. When a married couple both act as Trainer/Assessors and Internal Quality Assurers and they quality assure each other's work)
- Gaining benefits such as gifts, employment or hospitality if a decision is made in favour of a particular individual or organisation (NB: gifts given with the "intent to induce improper conduct" can be considered a bribe as referenced in the UK Bribery Act 2010)
- Mutually beneficial arrangements, which compromise an individual's ability to make reliable and professional judgments (e.g. a Trainer/Assessor and IQA who work together at the same Centre and who frequently quality assure each other's work)

Responsibility to declare a conflict of interest

All QA staff have a responsibility to declare any existing and/or potential conflicts of interest that may have an effect on how they carry out their role with QA. Staff are required to submit a statement containing full details of all identified conflicts and any actions taken as appropriate mitigation. If the circumstances relating to any declared conflict of interest change at any stage, staff are required to provide updated details to ensure records held by QA are current and accurate.

Centre responsibilities

With respect to conflicts of interest, QA approved Centres must do the following to ensure ongoing compliance with QA and regulatory requirements:

- Ensure Centre staff are aware how to identify and mitigate conflicts of interest

The Responsible Person for each Centre must ensure that all Centre staff or third parties such as Trainers/Assessors/IQAs involved in the delivery or administration of QA qualifications must be able to identify any existing or potential conflicts of interest as and when they arise. Prior to obtaining approval, prospective Centres are required to confirm all staff involved in the delivery of QA qualifications have read and understood the content of this Conflicts of Interest Policy.

- Take steps to avoid or mitigate any existing or potential conflicts of interest

Centres must manage working arrangements to avoid identified conflicts of interest as much as possible. For example, if a Centre staff member is undertaking assessment at your Centre and two out of three Trainer/Assessors are related to the staff member, then the examination should be assessed by the unrelated Trainer/Assessor.

Where the identified conflict of interest is unavoidable, particularly in relation to Learner assessment, it is important to ensure that independent scrutiny occurs to mitigate the conflict (e.g. an IQA could be present during the assessment process).

- Declare all identified conflicts of interest

Once approved, QA Centres are required to declare all identified conflicts of interest which will have an impact on Centre operation and the delivery of QA qualifications. In order to do this, a Conflict of Interest Disclosure Form must be completed and submitted to QA. Centres must ensure that submitted forms contain all details of the conflict of interest that has arisen and the actions that have been taken to either avoid or mitigate the conflict.

The details on any forms submitted will be reviewed by QA staff to ensure that the declared conflict has been managed appropriately. If this is not considered to be the case, QA staff will contact your Centre to discuss the scenario and ensure that the appropriate actions are taken to avoid or mitigate the conflict.

- Maintain an up to date record of conflict of interest

Centres must maintain an accurate record of all existing and potential conflicts of interest affecting Centre operation and QA qualification delivery, including details of all mitigating actions taken.

- Update records if there is a change in circumstances and notify QA

Centres must inform QA if there are any changes in circumstances relating to previously declared conflicts of interest. Centres are also required to submit the details of any new existing or potential conflicts of interest identified as time progresses.

Centres must also ensure that their own conflict of interest records are updated when changes in circumstances occur or new conflicts are identified.

- Ensure independent scrutiny takes place if a conflict of interest cannot be avoided when delivering QA qualifications

There may be instances when conflicts of interest cannot be avoided by approved Centres delivering QA qualifications. In such cases, the Centre must ensure that some form of independent scrutiny takes place with respect to course delivery/Learner Assessment. For example, the Centre could arrange for another QA approved IQA from another Centre to carry out quality assurance activity on courses delivered where conflicts cannot be avoided.

Conflicts of Interest that cannot be avoided through QA qualification delivery can also be mitigated through external scrutiny by QA staff. For example, the Centre can request that a QA External Quality Assurer be present during course delivery and Learner assessment (there may be a cost involved in this).

In terms of appropriately mitigating conflicts of interest, it is important that approved Centres are aware that conflict mitigation requires to take place at the time of course delivery and Learner assessment, rather than after the event. This ensures the level of independent scrutiny required to provide assurance that course delivery and Learner assessment has been carried out fairly, without bias and in line with all QA requirements.

Centres may also use technology in order to mitigate conflicts of interest. For example, Trainer observations carried out by an IQA at approved Centres may be filmed/recorded as opposed to this activity being carried out solely by an IQA that has a clear conflict of interest with the Trainer in question. This recorded evidence can then subsequently be externally quality assured by QA to ensure any conflict has been appropriately mitigated (Centres filming/recording for this purpose must ensure that all those involved are fully informed they are being recorded and have given permission for this to occur).

If you are unsure in any given situation whether or not a conflict of interest exists or there is the potential for one to arise, please contact QA for advice and guidance.

Policy review arrangements

QA reviews this policy on an ongoing basis as part of our continuous improvement activities and it is revised as and when required in response to changes in legislation, our practices, actions from any allegations and customer or Learner feedback.

Detail of this document may be updated to ensure our arrangements for managing conflicts of interest remain effective.
